Shamsky For Congress

In northern San Diego County we are blessed with everything that Nature can provide to make living a pleasant experience. There is a sparkling blue ocean, towering mountains, gentle hills, fertile soil and day after day of warm sunshine. Through man's skill, Nature's bounty has been supplemented with new supplies of water to serve the increasing population; highways which wind their ways into every corner of the county; and the schools, churches and market places which are the meeting places of our society.

About all we have really lacked to make this a better place to live is a congressman who represents the people. What we have now is an incumbent who votes against Negroes having the right to vote; who wants to introduce an official national religion (in violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution); and who distributes the propaganda of a foreign nation in such large quantities as to raise legitimate questions of who is paying for it.

In previous campaigns incumbent James B. Utt has had little or no opposition. This year a North County resident, attorney Burton Shamsky of Solana Beach, has been traveling up and down the 35th Congressional District telling voters about himself, about the incumbent's incredible record and inviting Mr. Utt to debate with him. The refusal of Utt to engage in debate on the issues of the campaign is a reflection of the concern which Utt and his John Birch Society supporters feel about Shamsky.

For Shamsky has done the thing which Utt fears most: he has been informing voters of this district of the real issues which confront the people of America and of the 35th Congressional District.

Mr. Shamsky speaks with a broad background of knowledge and experience. He served his country as a naval officer for eight years, including two tours during the Korean War. He was trained in the Russian and Chinese languages and worked as a staff officer with the U.N. Truce Commission in Korea where he had the valuable experience of learning at first-hand the difficulties of negotiating with the Communists. He has been an intelligence officer for the National Security Agency, doing work for the CIA. As an attorney, he is acquainted with the human problems which are brought to him every day.

It is this broad experience and knowledge of the nation's problems which would make Burton Shamsky an able representative of the people of the 35th District. His nomination in Tuesday's primary election is wholeheartedly endorsed.
